JUDGE R. MONCURE IS RE-ELECTED

Elected Unanimously by State Legislature

Will Serve Seven More Years to Fill Unexpired Term of Judge L. C. Barley Resigned

FRIENDS ARE GRATIFIED

Judge Moncure Was Elevated to Bench May 22, 1920—Has Splendid Record—Served One Term in Legislature—Engaged in Law Practice In This City in 1904.

Judge Robinson Moncure today was unanimously re-elected judge of the corporation court of this city to succeed himself. His election by both branches of the legislature was unanimous. News of Judge Moncure's re-election was conveyed to him early this afternoon by a representative of The Gazette. Judge Moncure was overjoyed at the news of his re-election. This a complete reaffirmation of the confidenceop reposed in Judge Moncure, not only by the citizens of Alexandria but by the members of both branches of the legislature.

Judge Moncure's new term will be for a period of about seven years having been appointed to the position of judge by Gov. Davis to fill the unexpired term of Judge L. C. Barley, resigned.

Moncure, therefore, a little more than seven years to serve as judge.

News of his reappointment soon spread throughout the city this afternoon and was the source of rejoicing among his many friends.

Judge Moncure was born in Stafford county, Va., February 20, 1881 and is a son of the late Thomas J. and Marguerite E. Moncure. He attended the Virginia Military Institute where he graduated and subsequently studied law at the University of Virginia. Afterward he taught school for a number of years and in August 1904 he began the practice of law in this city. For two consecutive terms he represented this city and what is now Arlington county in the state legislature, being a member of that body in 1910 and 1912.

The elevation of Judge Moncure to the bench was made May 22, 1920 to fill the term of Judge L. C. Barley and Judge Barley's term would not expire till February 21, 1929. Judge

His many friends in this city wish for him continued success and feel confident that in later years he will go even higher in judicial life.

APHASIA VICTIM NOW A PATIENT IN HOSPITAL

MAY BE WAR VETERAN

Aid of Washington Authorities Sought In Effort to Establish Identity—Has Two Old Wounds in Head

The police of this city and Washington today are endeavoring to help a man about thirty years old establish just who he is. The stranger is a victim of asphasia and says he knows not how he got to Alexandria—does not know his name or has the faintest idea where he is from.

All that he remembers is that he arrived in Alexandria about 12:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and discovered he was unable to tell who he was. He purchased a lunch and subsequently walked into police headquarters shortly before 3 o'clock and explained his predicament to Police Sergt. W. Wilkinson.

After telling his plight, Sergt. Wilkinson had Motorcycle Policeman Durrer conveyed the man to the Alexandria Hospital where he is being treated by S. B. Moore.

Mr. Moore says he has two old wounds, one at the top of his head and the other in the side of his head. Dr. Moore thinks that the man probably served in the world war and received these wounds from shrapnel, or may be suffering from shell-shock.

The man talks intelligently but simply has lost his memory when it comes to telling his name and where he is from or his occupation. Today at the hospital, some of the attendants spoke to him about France and he said he thought he had heard of it before and had some recollection of it.

The Walter Reed Hospital authorities were notified last night of the presence of the man here. The Washington police, today, were requested to help in establishing his identity.

The man weighs about 150 pounds and is about five feet, seven and one-half inches tall and wears shell-rimmed spectacles with heavy lenses, and has dark brown curly hair.

In addition to a small amount of money he had in his pocket, a draftsman's protractor, new pair of cuff-buttons and scarf pin was found.

The name "Silleck" written in ink was in his trousers pocket. His overcoat bears the name "McGregor, Newark, N. J.," and this is evidentally the dealer's name; and his black soft hat bears the name "Brill Brothers, Newark, N. J." The man is attired in a dark brown serge suit.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 17.—It now appears that President Harding is about to win his first fight with the agricultural bloc of the Senate over the attempt to force the appointment of a "dirt farmer" on the Federal Reserve Board. Two alternative proposals for settlement of the controversy have been agreed to by the bloc, one of the alternatives being acceptable to the President and meaning a complete victory for him. This plan is for the elimination of the provision of the present law whereby the President, in appointing members of the Federal Reserve Board is required to appoint two men with practical experience in banking. This would leave the President free to select whomever he chose on the board and would enable him to get better and more adaptable men because of the removal of restrictions.

Failure of the Japenese delegation to receive definite reply from its home government regarding the fortification status in the projected naval treaty of the Bonin, Kurile and Formosa Islands caused a postponement of the meeting of the Naval Limitation Committee of he arms conference. The Japanese and Chinese delegates instead are endeavoring to iron out their differenecs growing out of the twenty-one demands. Ja pan's position on this point, it is undersood, is that the treaty is a formal contract between two sovereign states which Japanse government cannot be permitted to be taken up in a formal conference. Japan will tell the conferees that if the United States or any other nation has objection to the treaty, the objection can be taken up in private negotiations, but that Japan can no more submit this treaty to an international conference than could the United States submit, for instance its treaty with Cuba to an international conference.

Intention of the Republican Congressional leaders to rush the foreign debt funding bill through prior to final enactment of a bonus measure was partly realized today when the debt bill was favorably reported by the Senate Finance Committee. The bill will be taken up this week and hopes are entertained that it may be written into law within ten days or two weeks, enabling negotiations for refunding of the foreign debt to start at once. As reported the bill does away with most of the restrictions on the debt funding negotiations that had been previopsly talked of. The only important limitation is that the term of the debts shall not be more than 25 years, or, in other words, that the dates of maturity shall not be extended beyond June 15, 1947.

Although President Harding has expressed his opposition to linking up the bonus bill with the foreign debt the opposition in Congress to the sales tax, the only other known feasible way of meeting the bonus obligation, has caused Republican leaders to entertain hopes that passage of the debt funding bill might clear the way for payment of the bonus bill's proposed obligation of from $1,500,000,000 to $3,500,000,000.

There is no doubt in Washington but that the utterances of former President Wilson regarding the League of Nations which he made to a gathering of not less than 3,000 people who called at his residence yesterday with regard to the Wilson Memorial have cheered those Democrats who had begun to look upon the League as a sort of Bugaboo. Indeed, what the former occupant of the White House had to say upon the League has spurred prominent Democrats all over the country to a realization of the fact that the sentiment of the League created by Mr Wilson, is still very much alive and that if any results, permanent in their character, are to be obtained from the present conference on the Limitation of Armaments and Pacific and Far Eastern questions, Mr Wilson is entitled to all the credit for making the first start in such a direction. This was the unanimous opinion of those who greeted the former Chief Executive yesterday afternoon, and it is the sentiment of the far seeing Democrats today.

CARS TIED UP BY STRIKE IN THREE CITIES

Petersburg Carmen Decline to go Out—Maintain Service

RICHMOND JITNEYS

Portsmouth is Completely Tied up—Norfolk Almost as Bad With Few Cars Running

Richmond, Va., Jan. 16.—The tie-up of the street car systems controlled by the Virginia Railway and Power Company in three of four cities—Richmond, Norfolk and Portsmouth—is virtually complete today, as a result of the strike order called by employes in protest against the wage cut.

In Petersburg the car men refused to heed strike order, and cars ran on schedule. Interurban employes, however, failed to report for duty and no cars were run between this city and Petersburg.

It was significant that the first car taken from the Petersburg barn this morning was driven by the president of the local division of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes of America.

In this city the company made an effort to operate, but only 12 cars left the barns and they were poorly patronized. The several jitney lines in various sections of the city were largely augmented today by numerous other cars. These were tagged "Contributed," and were operated by strikers or their sympathizers. Not licensed as carriers, they were not permitted to collect fares, but passengers were expected to contribute, and collections were turned over to the strikers. Apparently the inconvenience suffered was not severe, although the first real snowstorm of the winter with the resultant slush today made walking disagreeable.

The strikers thus far are adopting peaceable methods and there have been no reports of disorder. Pickets around the car barns are confining their efforts to moral suasion.

In a resolution adopted this afternoon the City Council asked the power company to confer with Mayor Geo. Ainslie in an effort to bring about an amicable settlement of the strike, and also warned the company that its franchise might be taken away unles it maintains service.

At a mass meeting of the 68 labor organizations here it was announced that $25,000 already had been received for the strikers from national headquarters of the Carmen's Union, and it was said that, if necessary, all the $6,000,000 capital of the organization would be used to win the strike in the three cities.

In Portsmouth every employe of the company obeyed the order to go out and the company made no effort to run cars.

In Norfolk, where 160 cars normally are operated during the rush hours of the afternoon, less than a dozen were running, and these were not patronized, sentiment appearing to be in favor of the strikers. Authority was granted by that city today for three additional jitney bus routes, and these were crowded to capacity every trip.

While there has been no sign of disorder in Norfolk thus far, intimation by the local management that men would be imported unless the regular employes returned without delay brought threats of retaliation from the strikers. The Norfolk police force has been largely augmented in anticipation of violence, and squads of bluecoats were stationed at the car barns and other points. Many of the 40 men who took cars out early this morning were induced by jeers of strikers, and in some instances threats of violence, to take them back, but the two groups did not come to blows or even dangerously near a crisis.

Eleventh-hour efforts of the Norfolk City Manager to avert the strike were unavailing, but the City Council probably will take some action looking toward bringing about a settlement tomorrow afternoon. The Virginia Railway and Power Company's new franchise is now pending before the City Council and this is expected to add weight to efforts to end the strike.

The Retail Merchants' Association has announced that if the street railway company insists upon the wage cut which precipitates the strike it will petition the Council for a return to the 6-cent fare, the present 7-cent rate having been allowed on a plea of higher labor costs.

The company advertised in Richmond all last week for men, but Manager J. E. Harvell says he will send out no cars in charge of inexperienced men.

Bible Thought for Today

Let us not be weary in well doing; for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.

As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith.—Galatians 6: 9, 10.

IN CONGRESS YESTERDAY

SENATE

The Foreign debt refunding bill was approved by the Finance Committee, with provision for semi-annual payment and interest of not less than 5 per cent, to which Secretary of Treasury Mellon objected, eliminated.

The Senate adopted a resolution by Senator McCormick calling on the State Department for information as to the budgets and deficits of foreign nations, affecting the ability of the nations to pay the United States, the action forecasting an extensive debate when the debt refunding bill is taken up.

Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery. The funeral was attended by a large number of relatives and friends of the deceased.

Reaffirm Indorsement of Judge Moncure

Twenty Six Attorneys Attend Meeting to Investigate Alleged Divorce Evil —James R. Caton Presides

COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE

Seven Named on Committee Which Will Make Full Report and Recommend Punishment if Conditions Warrant—Frank Stuart Appears and Makes Statement And Will Later Appear Before Special Committee to Substantiate Charges Made—Bar Association to be Formed.

In a resolution adopted at a largely attended meeting of the members of the local bar held yesterday afternoon in the corporation courtroom, it was set forth that no one has been authorized to speak for the association of its members or to make any charges in its behalf against Judge Robinson Moncure of the corporation court.

It also was set forth that the alleged divorce evil mentioned in certain published reports will be investigated by a committee named by the chairman of the meeting and this committee will make full report thereof and recommend the punishment of those found to be responsible therefor. The resolutions also re-affirmed the indorsement of Judge Moncure to succeed himself as judge of the corporation court, expressing confidence on his general qualifications for the office.

James R. Caton was chosen permanent chairman. William P. Woolls was chosen secretary and H. Noel Garner, stenographer. Attending the meeting were twenty-six members of the local bar. Chairman Caton was nominated by Judge Barley. Mr. Caton explained that he had called the meeting at the request of Attorney Gardner L. Boothe and other members of the bar prompted by the publication of a news article in which he said there is a reflection upon the entire bar of the city.

Mr. Caton declared that as a matter of fact there is no bar association of the city, but added there should be. Continuing Mr. Caton said: "We are confronted with a situation which requires action. If there is evidence to support charges made it should be produced before a committee of the bar, and if conditions declared exist, no man should be excused. We owe it to ourselves and to the people of Alexandria. We should spare no one for personal feeling or friendship."

Attorney Howard W. Smith then offered a resolution which was adopted, calling on Attorney Frank Stuart to explain by what authority he uses the name of Alexandria Bar Association with the so-called petition and the charges contained therein.

The resolution follows:

BE IT RESOLVED—"That Frank Stuart be requested to immediately appear before the members of the Alexandria Bar with a copy of the so called petition quoted in the article published in the Washington Times, under date of January 15, 1922, purporting to be signed by him, certain members of the Alexandria Bar Association, and certain business men of Alexandria, and explain by what authority he uses the name of the Alexandria Bar Association in connection with said so-called petition, and the charges contained therein."

Attorney Boothe said he would like to see the so-called petition.

According to Mr. Caton, since 1909 there have been 2,030 equity causes of all descriptions in the corporation Court of the city and 655 equity suits in the circuit court. There are now pending 310 equity suits of all.

Nevell S. Greenaway, clerk of the courts stated that about a month ago Attorney Frank Stuart brought a Mr. Cobb, representing a Washington paper into his office at about the time he was leaving, and he explained to them that they could not say as it was closing up time. Mr. Cobb, he explained, was in his office about three minutes and he had not seen him there since.

Attorney C. Keith Carlin said the members should do their own house cleaning first, and he offered a resolution as follows:

BE IT RESOLVED—"(1) That a committee of three be appointed to investigate the conditions alleged with respect to divorce in the article published in the Washington Times under date of January 15, 1922;

"(2) That Frank Stuart be invited to appear forthwith before said committee and present such proof as he may have to substantiate any charges that he has made, or may desire to make concerning divorce conditions in this jurisdiction."

Following the adoption of the last named resolution, Mr. Stuart asked to be permitted to go to his office for a few minutes and the request was granted.

In the meantime the question was further discussed, the first speaker

OPENS DOOR FOR CHINA SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

Famous 21 Demands However Await Final Action of Shantung

CUSTOMS SETTLED

Continued Discussion of Fortifications Still Delays Final Agreement on the Naval Treaty

Washington, Jan. 17.—The Conference hovered today on the edge of several important decisions, but made none. Business will be resumed tomorrow, with final action one way or the other just around on naval matters and on Shantung, and with the dynamite of other phases of Far Eastern questions plainly in sight. It seems to be a matter of only a few days and maybe a few hours, before very important things happen.

Sitting as the Far Eastern Committee, which Secretary Hughes convened this afternoon, the Conference got rather close to one of the Far Eastern subjects that may furnish an explosion, when the 21 demands were up for a few moments. That is one of the questions as to which the Chinese are most intense,* the Japanese most stubborn and most of the other delegates most nervous. Everyone on the outside has been awaiting the debate with keen anticipation.

But Mr. Hughes put the question aside temporarily. He observed that the 21 demands bear in part on Shantung, and that it would be to postpone consideration of them until the Shantung negotiations have been concluded. That was agreed to and the committee, which previously had formally accepted a resolution embodying the Underwood report on Chinese customs, turned to the question of the open doon.

The cutoms resolution was reported from the Committee on Draft, headed by Mr. Root, to which the Underwood report had been referred to be put in form for adoption. No change was made in the recommendations from the Underwood sub committee.

The Chinese are to be given, within six months, an effective 5 per cent. customs rate instead of the present nominal 5 per cent., which actually gives 3.5 per cent., the increase yielding about $8,500,000. A special conference is to meet in about three months in China to consider bringing into existence several treaties approved about 20 years ago, provided the "Likin"—that is, the Chinese internal tax on imported goods—is abolished. This conference also is to consider raising the regular tariff rate to 7.5 per cent., and permitting China to impose an additional tariff of 5 per cent on luxuries. All of these matters are subject to so many conditions that it is not certain now what value they will be to China.

After disposing of the customs resolution and agreeing to Mr. Hughes' suggestion that the 21 demands be put aside until a conclusion is reached in the Shantung dealings, the Far Eastern Committee took up the question of the open door in China, but reached no decision. Adjournment was taken after Mr. Hughes outlined the American position, and Mr. Balfour and Sir Auckland Geddes expressed the views of the British. Tomorrow the other delegations will be heard.

No official statement of what had been said was made after the close of the meeting, but it is assumed that Mr. Hughes stated again, without qualifications, the historic position of the Government on the open doon. Mr. Hughes himself stated in a comparatively recent communication to the Chinese that the United States has never done anything to establish special rights that would interfere with the rights of the people of other nations.

BIBLE AS LITERATURE

In the interview with Mrs. W. J. Morton, published in Friday's Gazette, we noted with much interest, her comments on the Bible as literature. We are heartily in accord with the sentiment of the Harvard professor quoted by her, who said, "I believe a knowledge of the Bible without a college course is more valuable than a college course without the Bible." We think it beyond question that the Old and New Testaments, as translated by Wicliffe, Tyndale and Coverdale, are the sublimest expressions of human and divine relationship in any language. We mention Wicliffe, because his translation was the first, made in the fourteenth century. Tyndale and Coverdale came after, and doubtless used Wicliffe's translation as a basis. The commission of learned divines appointed by James I to revise and retranslate the existing text, luckily were too busy or too lazy to meddle with the inspired work of their predecessors.

The fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth centuries saw the English language at its apogee. It was the language of a people than which no more vigorous or aggressive ever strove to give expression to their national consciousness. Most of the words were of Anglo-Saxon origin, intermingled with the forceful Norman French. Sometimes a whole sentence was compressed into a single syllable with dynamic power. Read the greatest masters of English of any century and you will find their language modeled on the Book of Books. The greatest orators have been those of the closest familiarity with this inspired work.

Ranking the English Bible as first and foremost of the literary expressions of the human mind, Shakespeare would rank second. His English was born of the Bible and he was doubtless familiar with the Tyndale and Coverdale translations. We know of but one other work that is so pure a well of the language that breathed the life of our heroic ancestry—the Morte d' Arthur by Sir Thomas Malory. The greatest names in English literature belong to this same period, when the language was in its creative stage, and before the later Latin and other streams had mingled with it and modified and softened it. Keats, upon first reading Chapman's Homer rolled on the floor in ecstasy, and afterwards wrote one of the most beautiful sonnets in all literature upon that work of genius.

The Anglo-Saxon words of our language are the strongest and most eloquent as well as the shortest. Note in the Bible how by far the greatest number of words are of one syllable. Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress will disclose the same fact. Lincoln's Gettysburg Address contains seventy per cent words of one syllable, twenty per cent, words of two syllables, and only ten per cent of three and four syllables.

But the Bible is not to be studied for its language alone. As we said, it is the sublimest utterance of Man in any tongue, and cannot but enrich his knowledge, improve and elevate his character, and strengthen his belief in his Creator. This, too, in its literary aspect alone. We do not touch, of course, upon its divine bearing in an editorial upon its value as literature.

Veterans of Foreign Wars

Boston, Mass.—Governor Channing Cox and Mayor Andrew J. Peters were present at the official opening of headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in the State House here January 3rd. The Massachusetts department now has 50 posts, with 33 more in process of organization.

Seattle, Wash.—Clifton Hotel, in this city, has been leased by a joint committee of veterans' organizations for use during the winter to house and feed unemployed veterans. Meals are also being furnished at Roosevelt Veterans' Hall by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Cleveland, Ohio—The Cleveland post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has a new clubhouse, one block from the public square, with ball room, billiard and pool room, library, lounging room and kitchen. The money to outfit the rooms is being raised by the members of the post, with the indorsement of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce. A paid secretary is being employed to handle the service and employment bureaus.

New York, N. Y.—The anti-bonus campaign of the National Chamber of Commerce was denounced at the last meeting of the Bob Kennedy Post, V. F. W., and resolutions were sent to the New York Chamber of Commerce asking their indorsement of adjusted compensation.

East Liverpool, Ohio—Posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars throughout Ohio have been instructed to assist all ex-service men in the filling out application blanks for the state bonus. Department Commander Willis O. Hall, of this city, has advised the posts to open special offices to handle the application forms without delay. The Cleveland post has already arranged for stenographers and a notary public to handle thousands of applications daily.

Newport, R. I.—The newly elected commander of the Newport post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is one of the most decorated men in the United States. He is James B. Lawless, and wears the Distinguished Service Cross, Italian War Cross, Croix de Guerre and several other decorations.

Boston, Mass.—Boston ex-service men are fighting to have the Leviathon overhauled and repaired at Charleston Navy Yard because it would give employment to 800 veterans who have been out of work since the yards closed. They have raised a fund to guarantee that the work will be done within the estimates submitted to the Shipping Board, and have secured the support of state and city officials and members of Congress in the campaign.

Washington, D. C.—Two thousand veterans have joined in a committee pledging their help to explain the advantages of options other than cash in the national bonus legislation. These men have agreed not to take the cash bonus, but to select some other option. A committee of Ten Thousand to carry on the educational work nationally is being organized by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Robert G. Woodside, Commander-in-Chief, is undertaking to prove to Congress that 90 percent of the men who do not now need the money to relieve distress will take other than the cash bonus.

New York, N. Y.—Col. Till Huston, half owner of the New York Yankees, is taking an active part in the activities of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He is a member of the Council of Administration of the organization and chairman of several important committees. During the war, he was in command of the 16th Engineers. He served also in the Spanish American War and had charge of reconstruction work in Cuba for several years.

Woodstock—A chamber of commerce organization will become effective Monday when a permanent organization is made. The citizens of Woodstock, and especially its business men, are working hard for such an institution. Secretary Thomas Burley, of Winchester chamber of commerce, and other members from Winchester will address the citizens and assist in the organization. The meeting will be held in the courthouse Monday evening.

From the "Teacherage" this week end, Miss Elizabeth Hall went to visit friends in Baltimore, and Miss Emma Lou Byrd spent the week end in Washington with Miss Payne.

Miss Louise F. Chamberlain, of Washington D. C., and Mr. Raymond C. Hemsley, also from Washington, were quietly married at 6:30 o'clock on the evening of Saturday, the 14th instant, in the home of Mr. A. V. Brooks, in Del Ray, Rev. J. R. Wood officiating. A small party of friends from Washington attended the couple and motored back with them upon their return to the District.

At the annual roll call of the Del Ray Methodist Church Saturday evening of last week, it was evident that the spirit of the church is good, also that the church is a flourishing condition, both spiritually and financially. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Wood, reported 46 members received during the past year, and the Sunday School superintendent Mr. D. C. Chambers, reported the total enrollment in all departments of the school to be 238 members at this time. After the roll call, various business were transacted; Mr. D. C. Chambers was appointed lay leader for the coming year, Rev. O. C. Beall was appointed chairman of the Evangelistic committee; the social service committee is composed of Mrs. Kidwell Mrs. Tate, Mrs. Varney, Mrs. Elsea, and Mrs. Kines while the Missionary committee is composed of Mrs. Yates, Mrs. Chamber, Mrs. Harmon, Mrs. Gary and Mrs. Harding.

The meetings at the Del Ray Baptist Church continue with unabated fervor. Mr. Frank McCravy is winning his way into the hearts of the people with his singing. The church is filled to capacity at each service, and spiritual results begin to be manifest. At 2:30 each afternoon one of the men of the church conducts a meeting for women, in the church. Come out to these meetings and receive your benefit. Mr. James McCravy brother to Mr. Frank McCravy, arrived in Alexandria today where he will begin tonight a two week sang service in the Second Baptist Church in Alexandria.

FOR GREATER ALEXANDRIA

Improvements Proposed in These Articles Are Indorsed

Co-Operation is Keynote of Successful Efforts In Behalf of Greater Alexandria

A certain gentleman for reasons very much his own will give some of his views and plans for a greater city but very modestly refrains from allowing his name to appear in print. He tells the reporter—

"I have been taking great interest in the series of Greater Alexandria articles that are being run in the Gazette and have decided that each and every one of the proposed improvements is of such a nature that it may not be treated lightly. For many years I have been a resident of this city but I have yet to see the time when we all pull together for the thing which would do us all much good. We lack vision. We cannot bear to part with a cent of our money without first being assured that it will rapidly increase.

"I think that one of the men interviewed sounded the key-note of the whole situation when he strongly advocated co-operation. We all know that without co-operation a city cannot progress yet we will not condescend to co-operate with our fellow citizens in the matter of building our city. We all want a greater city but are not willing to pay the price—yield our own stubborn opinions.

"Recreation, in the proposed park, would probably relieve this strain of the business life and all in all help us to become acquainted and help us to become able to view the questions of importance from a greater angle than our present very small one—enable us to look on both sides of a question. But recreation cannot do all.

"We must educate ourselves to see the necessities of our lives. We have traveled so long in the same old rut and that rut has worn so deep that we find it is with great difficulty that we diverge our course into paths more progressive. Education will make the task of changing our course easier therefore, we must have better schools to better educate our children and thus save them from being forced to travel in our footsteps.

"We must wake up and decide that what we want, we really want, and as one of the men said, 'If we want a thing and want it bad enough we will go to work and get it,' otherwise we will continue to drift along as we have done in the past.

"In view of what I have just said I think that it may be inferred that to realize a greater Alexandria someone must tell the people what they want, and must really make them think that they do want it. If this can be accomplished—and I am forced to say that anyone who does do it, is truly a genius, full worthy of the name—then we will have a Greater Alexandria in the broadest sense of the word."

MEN'S MEETINGS

Series of Sunday Afternoon Services at Westminster Building

At a non-denominational service Sunday afternoon at three p. m. at the Westminster Building, the public greatly enjoyed an address from Judge J. W. Barclay of the Paducah district, Kentucky.

His subject was deep, and for about an hour he kept his audience interested to the utmost.

The special music was also an added item to the service. Music by the quartette was rare and enjoyed to the fullest. This was the first meeting of its kind this year for the church. These Sunday evening speakings are under the auspices of the Young Men's Bible Class of the Second Presbyterian Church. They have made arrangements to have a good speaker each Sunday afternoon at 3 p m., in the Westminster Building or the church. Some very prominent speakers have been secured for the future, and the public is invited to attend the speaking each Sunday afternoon.

The committee that has this work in charge is to be congratulated for their fine start. There is one thing sure, this committee promises a fine speaker, and good music, to all that take advantage of these meetings. Congressman W. F. Stevenson, of South Carolina, will speak next Sunday, subject "James Version of the Bible, with effect on the English Language and Literature" This will be a great lecture, and it is hoped we will have a isters are asked to announce this unfull house for this big treat All mindenominational service, and urge all men to come and hear this great lecture

Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary

Dressmaking Class Announces Program For Second Term

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. believes in practical thrift. They are not only teaching the women of the city economical cooking but are also teaching them to make their own clothes which in many instances saves fully fifty per cent on my lady's clothing bill. Now that the first course in dressmaking is about completed, announcement is made of the second term's course which will open Wednesday evening, Feb. 1s, at the Chamber of Commerce under the instruction of Miss Inez G. Rea. Since Miss Rea has had charge of the class the enrollment has greatly increased and it is hoped that there will be an equally large number of women take advantage of the course which is offered for the second term, as at this season women's thoughts naturally turn toward plans for their spring and summer wardrobes. Immense savings can be effected by making one's own clothes, spring and summer ones being more easily made at home than heavier garments used in the winter. The course as outlined for fifteen lessons, follows. As the total cost for instruction is only five dollars, it is easy to see what a worthwhile investment this sum may become in its returns in future usefulness:

Lesson 1—Plain stitches, even and uneven basting, running, backstitch, half-backstitch, overhand or whipping, overcasting, bemming, blind or slip stitch.

Lesson 2—Seams, French and fellplackets, night dress or bungalow apron.

Lesson 3—Vest, knickers, camisole, or vest, teddy and pajama suit.

Lesson 4, 5, 6—Gingham, linen or pongee dress.

Lesson 7—Hat to match.

Lesson 8, 9—Tub skirt.

Lessons 10, 11, 12—Spring wrap.

Lessons 13, 14, 15—Fluffy summer dress of organdy, net etc.

Those desiring to enroll for this course should communicate with the Y. M. C. A. office or with Mrs. Harry B. Caton, 1231-J at once, as the fee should be paid before the class opens on February first.

Important Committees

Delegate Charles H. Smith Gets Three Committee Assignments

State Delegate Charles Henry Smith today was assigned zy the speaker of the House of Delegates a member of the committee on privileges and elections courts of justice, and enrollment and bills. The first named two are regarded as the most important committees in the House. Delegate Smith represents this city and Arlington county. The committee on privileges and elections has to deal with all political matters and the redistricting of the state. The courts of justice committee has to deal with all laws affecting procedure in the courts.

CALOMEL MAY TURN ON YOU NEXT TIME

Next Dose You Take May Salivate and Start World of Trouble

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dinamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it dosen't stare your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day: it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and cannot salivate.

CROWDS CHEER WILSON'S NAME

Opening of New York Drive For Woodrow Wilson Foundation

To Establish Rewards For Meritorious Service—Tribute Paid to Former President by Distinguished People

New York, Jan. 17.—Several hundred men and women cheered every mention of the name of Woodrow Wilson yesterday at he opening here of a campaign for $1,000,000 to establish annual rewards by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation "for meritorious service in behalf of democracy, public welfare, liberal thought and peace through justice."

Tributes to the former President, his accomplishments and his ideals were spoken by James W. Gerard former Ambassador to Germany; Henry Morgenthau, one time Ambassador to Turkey; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt; Augustus Thomas, playwright; Franklin D. Roosevelt and and others.

Mr. Gerard declared Mr. Wilson had been stabbed by hatred, envy and ignorance, adding that if the former President had been victorious in his aims there would be no war clouds in Europe today.

"We cannot restore our champion to the lists, but the cause he championed is not lost," he former Ambassador said.

"The cause of liberty had its ideal in Washington it was personifed in Lincoln and it had its apotheosis in Woodrow Wilson," was the estimate of Mr. Thomas.

Mrs. Catt declared the ingratitude of republics is proverbial and predicted the generations to come would proclaim the ideals of Wilson as those who followed Washington and Lincoln had reversed the judgment of their contemporaries.

"The time to tell Mr. Wilson he was right is right now," she said. "If a later generation builds him a monument, it will not be a memorial but an apology."

Mr. Morgenthau said the former President needed no defense. America was going to see its duty as Woodrow Wilson pointed it out, and then perform it, he declared.

H. M. Hantzmon Dies

For Many Years Was Superintendent of the Alexandria Gas Works

Harry M. Hantzmon, sixty-one years old, a former resident of this city, died yesterday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. S. C. Black, 624 Princeton street, northwest, Washington.

The deceased for many years was superintendent of the Alexandria gas works and resigned to accept a position as superintendent of the gas plant at Charlottesville, Va., in which city he lived for about ten years. For the past two years Mr. Hantzmon had made his home in Washington.

His funeral will take place at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence of his daughter and the body will be shipped to Charlottesville, Va., for burial.

The deceased is survived by two daughters and a son, Mrs. S. C. Black, Miss Ethel Hantzmon, of Washington, and Richard H. Hantzmon now in France. In addition he leaves two brothers and a sister, Charles Hantzmon, this city, Edward N. Hantzmon, Washington and Mrs. Walter Goodson, Washington.

RIGHTS UPHELD

Steel Corporation Permitted to Operate Ships Through Panama Canal

Washington Jan. 17.—The right of the United States Stee lCorporation through is subsidiaries to operate steamships by way of the Panama Canal is upheld in a tentative report submitted today to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the examiner designated to take evidence.

The examiner's report, if sustained by the commission, will settle the controversy hinging about that point.

Steamship lines operating through the canal attacked the steel corporation's right to participate in the business on the ground that it was also owner of a number of railroad lines, some of which are engaged in transcontinental traffic. Railroad lines so engaged are prohibited by law from entering into direct competition with the ships in the canal trade.

The examiner decided that none of the corporation's railroads could be considered competitors for transcontinental business and that the owner ship of merchant vessels by the manufacturng industry had not been forbidden by Congress.

MOTHER, QUICK! GIVE CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP FOR CHILD'S BOWELS

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which bas directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Lost His Hogs

Forecaste sent out by the Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture are often instrumental in saving lives, but in some instances they are death sentences, as is suggested in the following letter received by the bureau from a resident of Mississippi.

"I have four large hogs to kill and several of my neighbors are in the same shape. We lost our meat last year on account of the weather turning warm and raining just after a cold spell. I will thank you for myself and neighbors if you will kindly wire me collect as soon as forecast shows a continued cold spell for a week or ten days."

The Weather Bureau agreed to send the inquirer a report just as soon as the indications were favorable. To the men supplying weather service information, however there is nothing unique in this letter. Weather forecasts are used by a large number of farmers for the same purpose, and at some of the stations maintained by the bureau regular lists of farmers are kept for the purpose of advising them as to favorable periods for killings hogs.

A SWEET LITTLE BABY BOY

Makes a Bright Spot in Every Home. A Comfort in Years to Come

Park Rapids, Minnesota.—"I have taken your medicine — Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — when I was a girl for pains and before and after my marriage. I now have a sweet little baby boy and will send you his picture if you wish to publish it. My sisters also take your medicine and find it a great help, and I recommend it to those who suffer before their babies are born." — Mrs. WM. JOHNSON, Box 155, Park Rapids, Minn.

To marry and arrive at middle age without children is a great disappointment to many women. Think of the joy and comfort other women have in their children as they grow older.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to bring great happiness to many families by restoring women to health. Often the childless home is due to a run down condition of the wife, which may be helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It brought health and happiness into the home of Mrs. Johnson. Why not to youre?

National Thrift Day

January 17th.

Will YouMake It Your Financial Independence Day By Starting a Savings Account?

Wouldn't you like to know positively that in case of sickness or some other distress a friend with money would see you through?

That is exactly the kind of a friend you make for yourself if you build up a savings account. A friend from whom you have the right to take money when you are desperately in need of it, and from whom you can borrow without having to mortgage yourself to pay it back.

Thrift does not mean the hoarding of money. It means putting out money to best advantage. Some part of your income should rightly go toward the building up of a financial reserve.

It is savings account money that tides a man over sickness, that enables him to make the first payment on a house or a piano or that provides the funds to send the children through college. It also builds up the funds necessary to take advantage of good investment opportunities.

A part of your income should go toward building up capital that will enable you to make money with money. A man who lets time and money slip away from him is permitting financial independence, a home, and the fine things of life to slip away from him.

Thrift and Prosperity

One of the most encouraging signs that we are getting back to sound prosperity is the vast movement which is astir among us to get back to thrifty basis of living.

We Americans very much need a Thrift Campaign, such as the Y. M. C. A. is fostering in its National Thrift Week, which has for its slogan "Spend Time and Money Wisely." We need enlightenment on this subject because only a small percentage of us know how to get culture and enjoyable leisure out of our time or real value for our money.

National Thrift Week with its valuable publicity on this subject, and the various community activities that will be conducted affords a most valuable opportunity to get a correct conception of all that Thrift means.

The schedule of the special subject days which make up National Thrift Week embraces subjects of vital interest to all members of society. The days of National Thrift Week are as follows:

January 17. Tuesday—National Thrift Day (Ben Franklin's birthday.)

January 18, Wednesday—Budget Day.

January 19, Thursday—Life Insurance Day.

January 20, Friday—Own Your Home Day.

January 21, Saturday—Pay Your Bills Promptly Day

January 22, Sunday—Share With Others Day

January 23, Monday—Make a Will Day.

Beside these seven special subjects, every possible effort will be made to win popular enlistment in a Coast to Coast boost to accomplish the following purposes:

1. The movement to enroll 500,000 persons to manage their personal income on the budget plan. There is a tremendous need for this under present conditions.

2. The patriotic observance of Ben Franklin's Birthday, in co-operation with public schools, patriotic organizations. such as Sons and Daughters of the Revolution, and others.

3. Wise spending with a budget in co-operation with local retail merchants' associations.

To enlist at least one hundred cities in a whole-hearted move to educate the children of a community in Thrift through the Detroit Plan.

HEREDITY AND HEALTH

Of all the considerations that determine health, heredity is the one unalterable factor. Although certain characteristics are obviously hereditary, such as complexion, height, and mental and physical traits in great variety, yet in the past heredity has been very little understood. In consequence it has served too often as a scapegoat for faults and failings not beyond an individual's control but it is now possible to predict with a high degree of accuracy the inheritance of certain characteristics.

Many diseases, formerly considered hereditary because their actual causes were unknown, are now known to be communicable. Thus, it is now known that tuberculosis is not hereditary, although little children may be infected by tuberculous parents. No germ diseases are inherited in the strict sense of the word; but a baby may be infected with syphilis before birth if his father or his mother has the disease.

It is true, however, that certain tissue weaknesses of the body seem to be hereditary and in consequence one family is more susceptible to digestive disorders, another to disease of the lungs, a third to deafness, and so on. Moreover, general low vitality may be inherited. It should be emphasized, however, that hereditary weakness does not inevitably lead to disease. Many persons have succeeded in preventing the development of active disease by guarding against strain in directions where they are weak by inheritance.

Of all the tissue weaknesses that may be inherited defects of the nervous system are the most serious. Nervous disorders of every degree of severity, from slight nervous instability even to insanity, may result when these tissues are defective; but it is now a recognized fact that nervous disorders in many cases can be prevented from developing with the right care and favorable environment Feeble-mindedness, another condition due to defective tissue, is known to be inherited in the majority of cases, and in all cases is incurable.

Where different members of the same family have decided tendency toward the same type of disease great care should be taken to avoid undue strain in that direction. If it should happen to be a germ disease, such as tuberculosis or certain infections of the throat every precaution should be taken to avoid exposure. With proper care given in time, there is no reason why these tissue weaknesses should necessarily lead to the disease itself.

VENTILATION

Ventilation has a direct bearing upon health, although contrary to the former belief, the actual amount of oxygen in the air is not ordinarily the most important factor; even badly ventilated rooms contain more than enough oxygen to support life. The fractors of prime importance in ventilation are temperature, humidity, air movement and the number of persons in a given space, since the greater the distance from one to another the less the probability that disease will be spread.

Room temperature should not be above 70 degrees F., and except for the aged or sick it is better to be between 60 and 65 degrees. Some moisture in the air is desirable but as there is no apparatus to reduce the moisture in the air in summer we are obliged to endure humidity no matter how uncomfortable we may be But in winter the air in most houses is too dry, so that the mucous membrane of the nose and throat often become irritated and susceptible to infection. Most heating systems make no provision for supplying moisture. The following is a simple but effective device to increase humidity; roll an ordinary desk blotter into a cone about eight inches in diameter at the base, and keep it constantly submerged for about one inch in a dish of water. The water rises to the top of the blotter and a large surface for evaporation is thus afforded.

Stagnant air is harmful. Air should be in constant though not necessarily perceptible moion. The three factors, heating, humidity and air motion must be considered together. Every person requires each hour 3,000 cubic feet of air, and the problem of heating and ventilating is that of providing this amount in gentle motion, at a temperature of about 65 degrees, F., and of proper humidity. Higher temperature and stagnant air causes disinclination to work, headache, nausea, restlessness or sleepiness, and if continued are likely to result in loss of appetite and anemia. The tuberculosis movement has clearly shown the benefits, both for the sick and for the well, of living in the open air, and has caused great and beneficial changes within a generation.

Although fresh air enthusiasts are still too few, yet some go to the extreme and think that because cool air in motion is good(the colder the air and the more violent the motion the better. On the contrary, chilling the whole body or part of he body lowers resistance. Draughts of air have no bad effects upon persons in good health, particulrly those accustomed to changes in temperature, But draughts are apt to be injurious to aged or sick persons and babies, by dimmishing their resistance to such infectons as common colds and pneumonia. It should be remembered, however, that draughts or cold alone cannot cause colds; the specific germs must be present.

TREASURY SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

Secretary Mellon, of the United States Treasury Department has issued the following statement as to holdings of the New Treasury Savings Certificates:

"In accordance with the terms of the New Issue of Treasury Savings Certificates, the Certificates which are issued during the calendar year 1922 constitute the series of 1922, and may accordingly be held by any one person up to an amount not exceeding the legal limit of $5,000, maturity value, without regard to holdings of Treasury Savings Certificates of the series of 1921, whether of the Old or New Issue."

The Certificates of the New Issue, which went on sale December 15, 1921, and which were purchased prior to January 1, 1922 will be considered as of the 1921 series. Holders thereof will be permitted to purchase an additional amount to the limit of $5,000, maturity value, if desired, in the calendar year of 1922.

being Judge L. C. Barley, who said that there may have been an unusual number of divorces pending in the corporation and courts after several years. He said he thought the law of Virginia should be amended. If the Washington paper desires to find divorce evil, all that it has got to do, he said, is look into every court of law in that city.

Judge Barley said the underlying cause of the great number of divorces lies in the fact that war conditions did it, and he also declared some of the statements published were without foundation, adding that it is a shame to let such imputation go out. Continuing, he said, "I have never known such a flagrant misrepresentation in all of my life. If they want to probe into the divorce evil, let them look into their own home." The Judge told of a letter he saw from Washington to the effect that out of 200 equity suits filed in Washington 142 were divorce cases. He again explained that its cause in many cases was "because soldiers married in haste and repented at leisure."

Referring to his experience on the bench with divorce cases, Judge Barley, among other things, said that where the paper presented alleges proper facts and depositions substantiate same, the court must grant the divorce or let it go to the court of appeals.

In fairness to the members of the bar he said he could not believe that there are members of the bar who perjurd themselves or violated their oath. If there are such, he declared, the committee will find out and report back to the association. Taken all in all Judge Barley said he did not know of any higher set of men than the lawyers of the city.

Judge Norton declared that if the charges are true he expected to withdraw his signature from Judge Moncure's petition for re-election. Judge Norton also declared that the thought Mr. Stuart had a right to make charges if he desired. Judge Norton opposed a resolution offered by J. Randall Caton, declaring that it seemed to him that the members were going too fast. There was nothing in the article, he stated, attaching blame to Judge Moncure.

Continuing, Judge Norton said, "I know, and every member here knows these divorce cases are an outrage on the city of Alexandria," but he added, "It don't follow there is anything wrong with the judge." He said the only objection he saw to the resolution was that it purports to come from the bar association. Judge Norton thought the committee should be enlarged from three to seven members. A vote was taken on the question of enlarging the committee and it was carried by 11 to 9.

Chairman Caton named the four additional members as follows: Judge J. M. K. Norton, Judge C. E. Nicol, Judge L. C. Barley and M. Carter Hall.

The committee was empowered to employ a stenographer and such other help as may be necessary, the expense to be borne by the attorneys present.

Frank Stuart in the meantime had returned to the courtroom and he took the floor and stated that in connection with the matter referred to it was not his purpose to present the petition referred to at this time. This matter, he declared, has been under investigation for some time past. A reporter for The Times, he declared, has made an investigation of divorce in Alexandria and other conditions. Mr. Stuart told the attorneys that he knew who he had seen and who he had interviewed. Although, he said, the articles might be a little overdrawn, they will, he thought, be able to bear out every statement made.

Mr. Stuart declared it was not his purpose to touch any attorney and he added that he did feel it was known to the Judge of the court not only during his practice but since.

There were 685 divorce cases in 1921, he said. Mr. Stuart declared that he was the man who was responsible and he was the man who filed the charges. In connection with the charges he declared it was his purpose to present not only his own name but other attorneys and business men as well. He said he did not care to divulge their names at this time. At another meeting he said he would be glad to present names. He added that he was willing to take full responsibility.

Chairman Caton asked if he was willing to lay before the committee the facts to which he referred. Mr. Stuart admitted that a part of the first article appearing in the Washington paper was read to him over the telephone. Boothe characterized that part of the article referring the "Bar Association" as an untruth.

Judge Barley asked if there was anyone present who signed the petition, preferring charges against Judge Moncure to stand up. No one stood up.

It was explained by Chairman Caton that the meeting was called because the article as it appeared referred to "The Bar Association and charges." Mr. Caton continued, "If facts can be established they should be sifted." If charges are sustained they will be sifted and such actions as will be necessary, taken. Mr. Caton added that he always stood for ethical practice and that he had been practicing for forty-two years.

Attorney J. Randall Caton asked for the passage of his resolution which he had presented a short time previously. The members present, he declared, could not take any stand that does not meet both sides. Divorce, he declared, was not only an evil but a menace.

Judge Barley declared that the attorneys present did not know it was due to corrupt practice.

Attorney H. Noel Garner said that he could not subscribe to some parts of the resolution introduced. He favored laying the resolution on the table for the time being.

Attorney Howard W. Smith, referring to the resolution offered by J. Randall Caton said, one part provided to investigate the alleged illegal practices and the other to reaffirm the faith of the members of the bar in Judge Moncure and he then presented a resolution indorsing Judge Moncure for re-election.

Finally, after some alterations, the resolution was adopted, being redrafted.

Nevell S. Greenaway, clerk of the courts, said he would like to ask where the Washington newspaper man received his information.

Frank Stuart assured Mr. Greenaway that there had been no irregularity in obtaining the information.

The resolution adopted follows:

WHEREAS, the first of a series of articles published in the Washington Times, under the date of January 15, 1922, entitled "Alexandria Divorce Mill Exposed," has come to the attention of the members of the Alexandria Bar; and,

WHEREAS, said article purports to quote in full, a so-called petition subscribed to by certain members of the Alexandria Bar Association; and,

WHEREAS, said so-called petition makes certain charges against the Judge of the Corporation Court of Alexandria, Virginia; and,

WHEREAS, no such petition has been subscribed by the Alexandria Bar Association, but from said article appears to be written and signed by but a certain member of the Alexandria Bar; and,

WHEREAS, twenty-seven out of thirty of the active members of the Alexandria Bar have within the last ten days endorsed Judge Moncure for re-election.

FIRST: That the Bar Association is acquainted with no fact that changes the previous endorsement of Judge Moncure by individual members of this Bar, as evidenced by a petition duly signed and certified to our representative in the Legislature.

SECOND: That we do hereby repudiate the articles being published in "The Washington Times" as eminating from the Bar Association or its members and do affirm that no one has been authorized to speak for the Association or its members or to make any charges in its behalf against Judge Moncure.

THIRD: That we do hereby reiterate our indorsement of Judge Moncure to succeed himself as Judge of the Corporation Court of Alexandria, Virginia, and hereby express our utmost confidence in his fairness, his dignity, his legal fitness, his fidelity to duty, and his faithfulness to serve, and we do commend to the public his eminent qualifications to serve fearlessly and faithfully in the high office he now holds.

FOURTH: That the divorce evil mentioned in said article will be investigated by a committee heretofore appointed by the Chairman of this meeting, which will make full report thereof and recommend the punishment of those found to be responsible therefor.

On motion of Judge Louis C. Barley, an Alexandria Bar Association was formed, with Attorneys James R. Caton as President, and William P. Woolls as secretary. President Caton announced the appointment of a committee composed of Mr. Caton, Judge L. C. Barley and M. Carter Hall to draft by laws and a code of ethics to be submitted to the next meeting of the association.

GREATER ALEXANDRIA

(For The Gazette)

Under Greater Alexandria almost every day the old Gazette's reporter tells what the people say about the progress of our city and what they think we need to get the town to moving at a little better speed.

A Ferry cross the river, a road to Oxon Hill would be to our advantage, a long felt want 'twould fill. The Ferry's Knight's pet hobby, his hope and fondest dream. "Oh, for a boat in which to float across the noble stream."

George H. Evans, well agrees with Knight's progressive notions and stands quite ready at all times to second Robert's motions. Mr. Evans will endorse the Gazette's entire slate, but for the nonce on Oxon Hill he'd have us concentrate.

"A better road to Fairfax. Supply the missing link 'twixt here and all the Valley" is Albert's biggest think. The Valley is a region that flows with milk and honey, which cannot now be brought to us for either love or money!

So "a better road to Fairfax," the dream of Mr. Smoot. For a better road to Fairfax he'll never cease to root.

These are schemes primarily that deal with transportation, yet have to do materially with strengthening relation with friendly folk in our own state and neighbors 'cross the river, with whom we could reciprocate in truck and flying flivver.

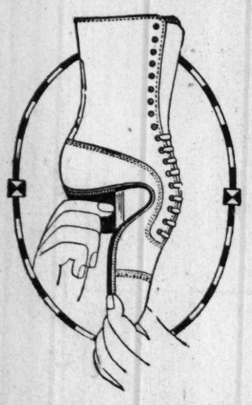
More Happiness for You

If you have not experienced the "pleasanter side of life" which many women are reaching nowadays by the simple expedient of changing to correct and comfortable shoes, let us quote a paragraph from a recent article in the style magazine Le Costume Royal.

"Many women have avoided comfortable shoes, thinking them unattractive, and have suffered untold misery for the sake of a desired effect. Recently, however, a skilled craftsman, who knows not only the needs of a foot but realizes as well the importance of a smart effect, has designed shoes which are the last word of the mode and a source of eternal comfort."



Pen sketches of Cantilever Shoes illustrate the article. We are the sole agents in this city for Cantilever Shoes, and invite you to try them on. They have the flexible arch which is so restful and which allows the arch muscles to exercise and strengthen, thus correcting or preventing weak arches. A snug fitting instep, a natural sole line, good looking and sensible heels, plenty of toe room, all contribute to your comfort. Consider the unhappiness that foot troubles cause so many women and let Cantilever Shoes show you the way to "the pleasanter side of life."

Thrift means a higher Standard of living without added expense, the dignity of serving oneself, and domestic independence.

Are men lazier than women?

ARE men lazier than women, or only less conservative? It is a fact that man's work, which mostly lies outside the home, has been simplified and made easier by the adoption of a thousand devices, but women's work, which is mostly in the home, continues very often to be back-breaking, nerve-wracking, expensive drudgery.

How many women still wash with a tub and a wringer, iron bending over a flat board, ruin their hands in greasy dishwater, scrub floors on their knees, and chase dirt with the clumsy, ineffective broom?

Of course they hate it. Of course they complain about it. They feel a loss of self-respect in doing it, and whenever possible they get some other woman to do it for them, at high cost, thrusting away their responsibilities and denying themselves the opportunity of thrift. And if there was no way of changing the character of this work, who could blame them? The times are civilized, but they see that housework as it is too frequently done is primitive.

It need not be so. The washing machine is here, the electric flat iron and the ironing machine, the vacuum cleaner with a dozen neat attachments for every sort of cleaning, the automatic dishwasher and drier, electric and fireless cookers, and many other devices of the precise type which in general industry and transportation make work easier and less expensive.

These things pay their way rapidly in time and ease. But more particularly, they pay in money. What we all insist on is the need of thrift in this country. But what is thrift? Not economy alone. Thrift is economy with foresight. After the initial cost of the devices necessary to make reasonable the work of an ordinary household, the interest on that cost will hardly equal the wages of a girl and a washerwoman for one month.

The time has come when forward-looking housewives no longer take pride in having their work done for them. They take pride in doing it themselves, so comfortably that it is no sacrifice, and so economically that it is the basis of their self-respect.
